

APPLICATION OF COMPUTER IN ECONOMICS

TOPIC- INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER
PART – III – INPUT DEVICES OF THE COMPUTER

Mrs. M. Hemalatha,
Assistant Professor of Economics,
C.P.A. College, Bodinayakanur.

Input devices of the computer

Input devices are hardware components used to provide data and control signals to a computer. Here are some common input devices:

Keyboard and Mouse

- Keyboard: A device with keys used to enter text and other commands into a computer

- Mouse: A pointing device that detects two-dimensional motion relative to a surface. It is used to control the cursor on a computer screen.

Touchpad and Scanner

- Touchpad: A flat control surface used to move the cursor and perform other functions, commonly found on laptops.

- Scanner: A device that converts physical documents and images into digital form.

Microphone, webcam and Joystick

- Microphone: An audio input device used to capture sound and convert it into digital format.

- Webcam: A video input device used to capture live video and images.

- Joystick: A device used to control video games or other applications that require directional input.

Graphics Tablet, Trackball and Barcode Scanner

- Graphics Tablet: A device used for digital drawing and handwriting input, where a stylus or pen is used on a flat surface.

- Trackball: A pointing device consisting of a ball held in a socket, allowing the user to rotate the ball to move the cursor.

- Barcode Scanner: A device that reads barcodes and converts them into digital data.

Touchscreen and Digital Camera

- ❑ Touchscreen: A display that also serves as an input device by responding to touch.

- Digital Camera: A device used to capture photographs and videos and transfer them

Game Controller and Light Pen

- Game Controller: A device used to interact with video games, including gamepads, joysticks, and steering wheels.

- Light Pen: A pointing device that can be used to draw or select objects on a screen by detecting light.

THANK YOU...
